Continuation of 5. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: the arguments are not persuasive. Applicant has filed a letter requesting the withdrawal of the final office action of October 4, 2004 since it has been deemed by the applicant to be a premature final rejection. Applicant has argued that the amendment of July 8, 2004 made prior to the final rejection has amended the preamble of claims 1-4 for form only. Examiner respectfully disagrees and submits that prior to the amendment of July 8, 2004 claim 1 recited "A bar code reader having an arrangement to communicate with a host apparatus in a POS system, comprising....a term expiration check unit..." and hence it was interpreted that the system, and mainly, the host apparatus comprised a term expiration check unit that checked whether or not a term of an article had expired. In the amendment and arguments filed July 8, 2004, applicant recited in claim 1 that there is "A bar code reader having an arrangement to communicate with a host apparatus in a POS system, the bar code reader comprising....a term expiration check unit..." and applicant argued that it was not the host apparatus but the bar code reader that comprised the term expiration check unit which checked the term expiration. Hence, it was then interpreted by the examiner that the bar code reader, not the host apparatus comprised the term expiration check unit, which indeed changes the scope of the claims and is not merely an amendment for form only. In addition, although the amendment was made in the preamble, the limitations were brought to life within the body of the claim. Therefore examiner was not premature in making a final rejection since the applicant's amendment necessitated the new grounds of rejection.
